

THE PROGRESSIVE BIBLE

"If it made sense, it wouldn't require faith."

- Reverend Rankin File
First Church of the Progressive

Version 1.0

www.fcotp.org

Foreword

This is the definitive, final, sole, authoritative sacred text and Holy Bible of the First Church of the Progressive. A curse of eternal damnation to Progressive Purgatory - where you will be subject to the prod of personal responsibility and will forever be forced to push the boulder of individual liberty - upon any who add to, or delete, or modify in any way this sacred and holy text. However, as one socialist regime after another inevitably plunges into poverty, starvation, corruption, and chaos, this text will be amended accordingly to reflect that those well intentioned Marxists failed to implement socialism the right way. The right way in this context being any way that seems to work, until it doesn't.

This collection of holy books was compiled during a weeklong binge of divine revelation, the author being completely consumed and intoxicated by the spirits such that he remembers little of having penned these words nor the manic fever dream of inspiration from which they sprang. The Creator herself, in conjunction with the ghosts of the leftist saints: Stalin, Mao, and others who can also be named in the ranks of history's most prolific mass murderers, did possess the author and contend within him, giving way to a holy book not wholly in singular tone; but rather, a patchwork, slipshod quilt of half baked ideas and concepts, tenuously held together by crossed fingers and fanatical belief like so many of the products that roll off the assembly line when the state assumes control of the means of production.

I redistribute a significant portion of my hope to you, comrade, that this holy work will be a guidepost, a lighthouse amidst a dark and stormy sea of free market economic progress and technological innovation, pointing the way backward to another time and place, when there was no need for fat acceptance activism amongst the working class, to the rocky crags before capitalism when a human being's only means of economic mobility was genuflection before the throne of a bureaucrat. As it was before, so shall it be again. Amen!

Reverend Rankin File
High Priest, First Church of the Progressive
Executive Director of No Scoop For You! The Society to Prevent the Cultural Appropriation of Indigenous Ice Creams
Founder of Estrogents, A Safe Space for Eunuchs and Male Feminists
Current Twitter Woke World Champion with 18,942,239,003 points and counting

October 2019 (Year 201 of the Marxist Calendar)

Genesis

1. In the beginning life was perfect. ²The workers toiled in the fields for their betters and there was no income inequality amongst them, for they all lived in squalor. ³Finding their needs met by the same lords who chained them to the land and freed them from the encumbrance of self-determination, the laborers thus enjoyed the kind of egalitarian idyllic existence that most 21st century Americans could but dream of. ⁴But after having previously poisoned the populous by promoting doctrines like democracy and civil liberties, The League of Extraordinarily Evil Cis White Men once again emerged from their secret, smoke filled lair. ⁵Their abominable airships darkened the skies, while their fleet of Hate Balloons gained altitude by cutting from their baskets what they used as ballast - the feudal equivalent of a marginalized transgender non-binary activist. ⁶Taking dead aim upon the working class, their goggle wearing bombardiers delivered their latest oppressive payload - the volatile fruit of free market capitalism.

2. The weariness of their work and the insufficiency of their diet conspiring to sap what little strength they had, the delusional serfs found themselves giving into temptation and partaking of the capitalist offering. ²This decision proving as disastrous as the 2018 publication of Scowls and Jowls: The 1st Annual 2nd, 3rd, & 4th Wave Feminist Intergenerational Intersectional Swimsuit Calendar. ³Their eyes now sufficiently opened, they saw themselves as unique individuals, and the ridiculous idea that each should be free to determine the trajectory of their own lives made a folly of their thoughts and a corruption of their reasoning. ⁴Showing little in the way of mercy, the evil seed of capitalism sprouted in their hearts, twisting and defiling the disease-ridden peons into believing that property rights, were to them, something that should be accorded.

3. The chains of capitalism spread, as more and more vassals rose up against their betters and oppressed themselves by owning the land they worked. ²This led to the nightmare phantasmagoria of the free market where one sinner could exchange their labor, or the product of their labor for goods and services provided by other sinners who profited greatly in this hellish arena. ³No longer content with having the barest of provisions provided them, perverse peasants now began to acquire things for which they had a desire, but no need. ⁴Arriving at the deranged conclusion that their lives should be enjoyed, they now found themselves forever damned, the free market fruit having fully ripened in their souls.

4. Like some creeping, noxious plague, the sin of capitalism spread and mutated, the infected now finding their minds filled with mad notions of self governance. ²Embracing the yoke of individual liberty and personal responsibility and rejecting their lords like a body positivity activist rejects pants without an elastic waistband, they established governments for themselves both in Europe and The New World to allow the pestilence of capitalism to grow. ³And so did they plunge into a dark and desperate pit of prosperity and technological innovation.

5. But some had more than others and a few had more than most. ²Whether this acquisition was due to a greater intellect, invention, labor, or luck, none could say. ³But what could be said was that it was neither fair nor just. ⁴As all of the traits that can lead to one acquiring wealth are evenly distributed by nature, so should the product of those traits also be equally distributed, Amen!

The Gospel of Marx

1. It was in humanity's darkest, bleakest hour that a savior was born to us. ²Capitalism had shackled the people to the maleficent machine of the industrial revolution which saw per capita economic growth and the standard of living for the general population continually rise for the first time in human history. ³Gifted to the world in May, 1818, Karl Marx was the product of wealthy attorney father and aristocrat mother. ⁴Growing up in a 10 bedroom house exposed young Karl to the horrors of capitalism first hand. ⁵Spending much of his young adult life in the most noble of pursuits, being an unemployed professional student relying on handouts from his wealthy parents; the death of his father would force Karl to enter into the indentured servitude of capitalism, as a sometimes journalist and editor of a radical newspaper.

2. By age 29 and having spent the vast majority of his life actively not participating in capitalism, Marx was thusly in a position to publish his scathing critique of it. ²*The Communist Manifesto* was a divine revelation, a beacon of light and hope in a world darkened by economic growth and innovation. ³Like a social justice warrior going to work on a tweet, dissecting the 140 characters desperately hoping to find one offending pixel, so too did Karl don his jeweler's eye and begin his examination of the free market system. ⁴Rolling up his sleeves and exposing areas of skin to light for the first time in years, Marx tore apart the capitalist machine with all of the finesse and skill of a gender fluid advocate ripping out pages from a high school biology textbook.

3. Marx uncovered the secret, never before seen truths hidden deep within the caverns of capitalism - truths which resonated with the jealousies and hatreds hidden deep within our own hearts and we believed, Amen! ²Capitalism was not merely a simple construct that promoted the notion that an individual should be allowed to own property, develop and utilize it how they saw fit, and determine their own fate. ³Capitalism was not just the establishment of a free and open market. ⁴No, capitalism was an evil, vile, hopelessly flawed mechanism that operated solely on oppression, a grotesque monstrosity with multiple insidious tentacles like some eldritch horror sprung from the dark recesses of HP Lovecraft's imagination.

4. Proving that with economic deconstruction he had about as much game as the now out of print Don't Be Afraid To Cry: A Male Feminist's Guide to Sex and Dating in the 21st Century, Marx nevertheless liberated the noble jealousy in our hearts. ²We no longer had to toil under the delusion that our neighbors possessed more because they were smarter, luckier, or worked harder. ³We now knew that anyone who had more was an oppressor, and any less, the oppressed.

5. Marx demonstrated his moral superiority over the oppressors by advocating for their deaths. ²Possessed not merely with a humanitarian spirit but also one of prophecy, Marx predicted capitalism's ultimate demise as a self-destructive mechanism giving way to a stable and more egalitarian socio-economic system of his own construct. ³Realizing the inherent flaw in capitalism was its singular unfairness - a system that greatly benefited those who had assumed all financial risk if a business failed with most of the financial reward if the business succeeded - Marx devised a system that was far more fair. ⁴*From each according to his ability, to each according to his needs.*

6. In the span of a week, some may toil 60 hours, some 6, or in the case of Karl himself, working only upon finding a check from a relative not awaiting him in the mail. ²And from the labor of the collective, each worker received that which they needed (and only that) the excess being then divided amongst the bureaucrats and party bosses who administered the redistribution machine, such was their reward for being the first to point out the inequalities of capitalism. ³Others sweat, so Karl eats. ⁴Believers will no doubt have little trouble testifying to the superior justice and fairness of such an economic system, Amen!

7. Weary from an arduous life spent sporadically standing shoulder to shoulder with the workers he championed, it was in March of 1883 that Karl left this world, or, as his joyous and humane spirit put it, ceased the wretchedness of existence, and ascended to communist heaven, sadly, never living to see the murder and mayhem he called for carried out in his name. ²But he leaves us with all of his unfulfilled prophecies, his justification for bloodshed, his belief that equality superseded freedom, his extensive collection of sock puppets, and his desire to see a world where everyone was as equally miserable as he, these that would become the rock upon which the First Church of the Progressive would be established forever, Amen!

Hosencrantz and Guildensock - two puppets from The Stocking Feet Players collection. Marx was well known to stage elaborate productions of Shakespeare with his handmade sock puppets.

The Book of Revolutions

1. This is the book chronicling the achievements of those enlightened states that, having fervently believed and adhered to the teachings of the Prophet Marx, did implement and birth upon the world in considerable blood a stable socialist state within a communist framework.

²Afghanistan

³Albania

⁴Angola

⁵Benin

⁶Bulgaria

⁷China

⁸Congo

⁹Cuba

¹⁰Czechoslovakia

¹¹Democratic Republic of the People's Republic of the Worker's Collective of Austin

¹²East Germany

¹³Ethiopia

¹⁴Grenada

¹⁵Hungary

¹⁶Kampuchea

¹⁷Laos

¹⁸Mongolia

¹⁹Mozambique

²⁰New Old East Swayzeland

²¹North Korea

²²Poland

²³Romania

²⁴Somalia

²⁵Soviet Union

²⁶Taured

²⁷Tuva

²⁸Vietnam

²⁹Yemen

³⁰Yugoslavia

Flag of the short lived republic of New Old East Swayzeland, which broke away from Old East Swayzeland after the two sides could not agree which was the greatest film of all time, Dirty Dancing or Road House.

The Book of Backsliding

1. This is the book chronicling the unpardonable sin of those heretical states that have turned their backs on the teachings of the Prophet and are either no longer communist, or no longer exist.

²Afghanistan

³Albania

⁴Angola

⁵Benin

⁶Bulgaria

⁷Congo

⁸Czechoslovakia

⁹Democratic Republic of the People's Republic of the Worker's Collective of Austin

¹⁰East Germany

¹¹Ethiopia

¹²Grenada

¹³Hungary

¹⁴Kampuchea

¹⁵Mongolia

¹⁶Mozambique

¹⁷New Old East Swayzeland

¹⁸Poland

¹⁹Romania

²⁰Somalia

²¹Soviet Union

²²Taured

²³Tuva

²⁴Yemen

²⁵Yugoslavia

²⁶Believers, a watchful, wary eye needs be kept on China. ²⁷While true it is that the Communist Party still reigns in China, the nation is poised on the slippery slope of backsliding and should be scourged with righteous socialist indignation and urged to reverse course in several troubling economic areas. ²⁸For China has now privatized much of their industries and have encumbered these businesses with a tragically light yoke of taxation. ²⁹Why they would engage in such depraved atrocities is unclear, but what remains clear is that unless they repent of their sins and commit their whole hearts and minds to the true savior of socialism like their neighbors in North Korea, these flirtations with capitalism will surely have disastrous ramifications and causes China's economic future to look as grim and hairy as the locker room at Linda Sarsour's Trans Exclusionary Radical Feminist 10K Spartan Race to Eliminate Oppression...And Jews.

States of Confusion

1. As one socialist utopia after another short circuited and imploded, like a polygraph hooked to a progressive claiming to love America, believers looked on with great crying and gnashing of teeth, while their beloved ideology succumbed to the garbage heap of history finding space alongside other rubbish ideas like New Coke and Fight Like a Man: The 7 Part VHS Self Defense Series Featuring Boy George. ²Peering through trembling fingers, they watched in horror as poverty rates declined in former socialist states now operating under capitalism. ³Their ear-shattering laments reached the heavens as believers beheld human beings in former socialist republics shed their shackles and begin to enjoy increases to both living conditions and freedoms as a result.

2. Their faith unshaken, believers quickly put their hammers and sickles out of sight and boldly declared that they had never been in favor of communism, but rather, they wanted to implement a socialist utopia that was not totalitarian. ²A socialist utopia where vote rather than violent revolution ascended the bureaucrats to power. ³A socialist utopia that did not infringe on rights, but simply took businesses and property away from those who owned them and handed them over to democratically elected bureaucrats. ⁴A socialist utopia that was fair and just where democratically elected bureaucrats stole money from those who had earned it and redistributed it to those who hadn't (including themselves). ⁵They wanted the kind of benevolent socialism Hugo Chavez was bestowing upon the Venezuelan People.

3. And then as the reports made their way north of Venezuelans being forced to forage for food and cook their own pets to survive, believers were left speechless in shock. ²Wearing masks of open mouthed amazement they watched as 13% of the entire population of Venezuela fled the country, creating the largest refugee crisis in the history of the Americas. ³Believers scratched their heads in bewilderment as Venezuela slid into poverty, starvation, and corruption just like the dozens and dozens of socialist states that preceded it.

4. Their faith unshaken, they hurriedly took down the yellow, blue, and red flag hanging over their beds in their parents house. ²They quickly scooped up their Hugo Chavez bobblehead from its perch atop a stack of unblemished applications for employment and shoved it into the same shoebox that now housed idols made in the likenesses of Lenin and Castro. ³They boldly declared that the man they had previously lauded and heaped with praise had failed to implement socialism the right way. ⁴And still others argued that the incredibly stable tree of socialism that Chavez had planted in a country with a year-round growing season and natural resources the envy of the world had taken root and was growing strong, undone only by US sanctions...or maybe a couple of dudes from the CIA...or mismanagement...or perhaps a stiff breeze, they weren't certain.

5. What they were certain of is that the failings in Venezuela like the failings in all of the socialist states that preceded it could not be blamed on socialism, at least, not the kind of socialism that they now championed - the kind found in the Nordic countries, which is, curiously, free market capitalism. ²*Would that we were like socialist Denmark* they shouted! ³But Denmark is a capitalist country with no state mandated minimum wage. ⁴*Would that we were like socialist Sweden where the rich pay their fair share* they cried! ⁵But Sweden is a capitalist country where the extensive social programs are bankrolled by a high tax on the middle class.

Book of Claire

1. Conceived by the union of investment banker and corporate attorney, Claire Alexander was born in Newport Beach, California in the spring of 1990. ²But what mattered most wasn't her individual identity, the name given her by her parents, but to which groups she could identify with. ³Straight, White, Female (currently), SkyScream - The Southern California Association of Self-Loathing Caucasians & Amateur Alpine Yodelists, The Newport Beach White Guilt Guild, That's Mine - The National Organization for Entitled Millenials and Pre School Children with Behavioral Disorders, The Vertically Challenged - A West Coast Support Group for Socialists and Comatose Patients, The Star Spangled Banned - A National Movement to Have the National Anthem Outlawed & Promote Environmentally Responsible Flag Burning, and Do Not Covet Thy Neighbor's Ass - The National Organization for the Promotion of Jealousy, Wealth Redistribution, and Sodomy

2. Elevation to national prominence arrived soon after the publication to Tumblr of her groundbreaking thesis, Why White People Shouldn't Be Allowed Passports. ²This she followed up with the even more important series of Twitter posts, Why All Heterosexual Sex is Rape. ³She courageously spoke truth to power on social media while bravely blocking and campaigning for deplatforming any who posited facts undermining her beliefs. ⁴But it was in the early morning of November 9th, 2016, after several hours of what those who shared her residence hall would later describe as sounds like someone being savagely attacked by a wild animal emanating from her dorm room that her door opened and she emerged, eyes red and puffy, clumps of blue hair held in her hands and nailed to her door the precious article that would become the tenets of our faith, presented herein and unadulterated.

3.

1. All are equal, therefore we should implement an egalitarian, oppression free society that redistributes resources evenly, implements fairness and justice for all, outlaws capitalism, and is centered around Marxist equality like the best and most stable countries have done over the last hundred years.
2. All rich people, from the entrepreneur who started a revolutionary tech company in his garage, to the CEO logging a 70 hour work week, are privileged assholes who acquired their wealth by oppressing others and therefore have less morality and less worth.
3. The white man is the devil.
4. Any speech I disagree with is hateful.
5. Anyone citing facts that conflict with my beliefs or offend me in any way is guilty of hate speech.
6. Anyone using non gender neutral pronouns is guilty of hate speech.
7. Anyone using ableist language is guilty of hate speech.
8. Using the words "mankind" or "cocktail" or "dickcissel" is hate speech.
9. Hate speech should not be protected by law. People who speak hate should be jailed and have their tongues removed.
10. Christianity should be outlawed and anyone found wearing a cross, crucified.

11. Guns should be illegal. No Antifa warrior should have to fear being shot while hurling a brick at the back of someone's head.
12. If you believe in something it doesn't matter if there is evidence to support it or not.
13. #believewomen
14. I was in a cafe last week and a man was leering at me. He wasn't the one I wanted to be leering at me, but he was OK, I guess. But then I found out that he was actually leering at the woman seated behind me! Men leering at women in public is a form of assault and exacerbates rape culture. Offenders should have their eyes gouged out.
15. One's value to society is not determined by what they contribute, but by the amount of victim groups they belong to and the number of bumper stickers adorning their Prius.
16. Belief and personal experience outweigh reason and the scientific method.
17. White people calling the police on a person of color is an act of racism and should be illegal. A white person being stabbed by a person of color should keep their phone in their pocket and apologize for their privilege.
18. Israel is an apartheid state. The nation of Israel should be given to the Palestinians and Jews should be forced to go back to wherever it is that they come from.
19. Businesses are evil and corrupt and engage in wickedness like offering goods and services, advancing human knowledge and civilization with technological innovations, and employing people and paying those with chemical engineering degrees five times more than those of us with four year degrees in Ribbit Grrrl: The Study of Female Emancipation and Empowerment and the Eroding of the Patriarchy in South African Bullfrog Populations.
20. Government is good and above reproach.
21. Gender is on a spectrum. Chromosomes do NOT determine gender and any "science" that says otherwise should be outlawed and any books claiming otherwise burned.
22. A person who is so large that they cannot get out of bed without the assistance of a crane is still healthy as long as they believe they are, regardless of what science says.
23. Madison Avenue has gotten away with oppressing women and creating marketing campaigns promoting toxic traditional gender roles for too long. This ends now! Stop showing me commercials with a woman in a size 4 dress prancing around in her living room with a kitchen clearly visible in the background! Or a 115 pound woman dropping her brat off at school! Women need to be shown in a more authentic and progressive light. Give me a woman the size of an NFL linebacker armed with an M2 machine gun in one hand while performing her own abortion with the other, wading into battle while spitting out terse, expletive-ridden dialogue through gritted teeth, slaughtering priests and Trump supporters by the thousands. Give me this commercial and then we'll talk about me buying your vaginal cream, OK? Anything less than this should be illegal to be shown on television.

24. All men should be forced to wear some kind of shock collar while in public. This collar would monitor blood flow and any increase to their penis would cause them to receive 2000 volts while simultaneously setting off a 150 decibel alarm to notify any woman in the area to get out her bear spray because a rapist was in the vicinity. This would be a good use of technology. Make this instead of a fucking watch Apple and show that you are a progressive company!
25. The greatest and most noble accomplishment in life is being a victim.
26. Healthcare for all! We should also eliminate private health insurance altogether. The lunatic libertarians are wrong, less government and more freedom is NOT the answer - just the opposite is what this country needs.
27. Spreading my misery to as many as possible is the reason I exist.
28. Yesterday I Googled "Famous Actors" and guess what? Surprise, surprise, nothing but cis men in the results! The Google algorithm, which was probably one of the earliest schemes of the patriarchy scribbled on some cave by some neanderthal who just got done clubbing his wife, needs to be reworked and a diverse committee consisting solely of women need to manually vet any and all search results for diversity and inclusion before those results are served up to the user.
29. I am entitled to what someone else earned because that is my definition of fair.
30. So yesterday I was on the bus and this grizzled old entitled white man wearing some WWII cap asked me to please move my bag so he could sit in the seat next to me, as if he was too good to stand! I told him to fuck off and die! Then he got the bus driver, also a man (shocking, I know, cause the patriarchy is in place to make sure that men have all of the best jobs!) who told me I would have to move my bag or get off the bus. Fuck the patriarchy!!!
31. Sports like - American football, basketball, baseball, ice hockey, that one where it's like hockey on a field, rugby, boxing, quidditch, wrestling, MMA, and Russian Drunken Polar Bear Polo - that encourage toxic masculinity should be banned.
32. Any man with upper arms larger than 10 inches should be forced to undergo plastic surgery arm reduction to appear less toxic.
33. All works of art and entertainment should be judged solely on their diversity and identity politics and any piece of film, book, television, video game, or comic that doesn't meet diversity quotas should be banned and all extant copies burned.
34. Men should be forced to wear a gag while in public to get rid of mansplaining. Mansplaining is when a man condescends to a woman by arrogantly trying to explain or define something she already understands.
35. Men should be forced to hang onto handrails and ride on the outside of trains, buses, boats, and all commercial aircraft to get rid of manspreading.
36. White people expecting people of color to be punctual is a form of racism. It is very, very racist to expect that a person of color understands the concept of time or how a clock functions.

37. Gender and skin tones are personality traits. You can glean everything you need to about someone by their appearance. Individuality is an archaic construct and not progressive!
38. Spending 40 hours a week desperately searching for things to be offended by is exhausting and should be considered a job and should be compensated accordingly, preferably by those who have actual jobs and pay taxes.
39. If your three year old son tells you that he believes he is really a girl, you have a moral responsibility to buy him a dress. And if your three year old son tells you he thinks he is a serial killer, you have a moral responsibility to get him some small mammals upon which to practice his skills. This is good parenting.
40. White people who braid their hair should be scalped for cultural appropriation.
41. White people with tribal tattoos should have a giant red 'A' tattooed on their chest for Appropriator.
42. White people who make tacos in their kitchen should be disemboweled with a chef's knife for cultural appropriation.
43. White people who study jew-jitsu, or even know how to spell it correctly, should be choked to death for cultural appropriation.
44. White people with a kimono robe, dress, or jacket in their closet should be executed with an iron maiden for cultural appropriation.
45. Any white person with a Henna Tattoo should have their hands cut off for cultural appropriation.
46. White people who commit suicide by seppuku should be...well, they should be remembered as cultural appropriators and their graves desecrated accordingly.
47. White people who sing along with Bollywood Musicals should have their tongues ripped out for cultural appropriation. It is OK to attend a Bollywood film (I think) but a white person needs to be completely stoic, as inanimate as the audience at a Ghostbusters 2016 screening.
48. Um, attention white surfers, don't know if you're aware but yes, you are appropriating every time you get up on your board. So don't think I shed any tears for you when a shark bites your fucking leg off! Oh, and because skateboarding evolved from surfing it is evolutionary cultural appropriation so basically, if you're a white person and you are standing on a board of any kind, the next board you should be standing on is a trapdoor in a fucking gallows!
49. White people wearing chopsticks in their hair is a form of cultural appropriation. In fact, using chopsticks as a utensil is a form of cultural appropriation. But using a fork to eat Asian food is even worse. Put those fucking utensils down and eat with your hands you fucking heathen! Or better yet, just don't go to Asian restaurants at all if you're white to avoid any possibility of appropriation. Rule of thumb, don't wear anything, style anything, speak anything, use anything, eat anything, study anything, or enjoy anything unless you can trace its roots back and find a common origination point with your own ancestry.
50. All gas and diesel powered combustion engines should be destroyed. This includes generators for homes, schools, and hospitals.

51. Jet turbine engines should be destroyed. Air travel should be accomplished via balloon, blimp, or some sort of human powered mechanical steampunk flying machine.
52. As a progressive, you should recklessly charge forward, constantly looking behind you to crimes committed centuries ago to make sure that those in the present remain locked in the healthiest emotional states - anger and guilt.
53. Any man who has “standards” for a woman is a misogynist and a card carrying member of the patriarchy. No man should be allowed to hold a woman to any standard, especially the ones who make a lot of money.
54. Anyone not actively seeking the pity of others is an oppressor.
55. Diversity is the most important thing in any society.
56. No diverging thought or belief other than ours should be tolerated.
57. Equality is the most important thing in any society.
58. A perfect society would be one where everyone has an equal share of resources and thinks and says the exact same things, but those identical words are dribbling out of the mouths of people with varying skin tones.
59. Any man who refuses the advances of a trans woman is transphobic and should be given an estrogen regimen and a makeover and then thrown into gen pop to live out their days being traded for cigarettes.
60. A man asking a woman out on a date is a form of assault and should be punishable by law as such. Unless he is hot and rich, then it should be legal.
61. It should be illegal to eat the flesh of animals, make clothing from them, or in any way abuse an animal. However, it is ok for zoophiles to fuck them. Zoophobia is NOT OK!
62. Men should not be allowed to participate in any sporting event as such activity simply exacerbates their latent toxicity. Men who want to participate in sports need to identify as women and then take over women’s sports, relegating women to the sidelines.
63. You should not force gender on a child, but neither should you force species on a child. Your child should be allowed to determine to what species they self-identify. I know that I and all of my socialist friends identify more with bradypus tridactylus than homo sapiens.
64. In the midst of all this negativity, I would be remiss not to mention my male feminist boyfriend who is always supportive and never slut shames me or pressures me into sex, unlike my Tinder date and his roommate last Friday. And again on Saturday morning. And also Saturday night. I love you, Francis!
65. If you see someone wearing a MAGA hat and you do NOT participate in a violent gang assault on them, then YOU are the problem and it is YOU who should be beaten and curb stomped to death for your complicity.
66. Feelings are more important than facts.
67. If someone feels they are oppressed, they are.
68. If someone feels they are a victim, they are.

69. If someone feels that she is an attractive, intelligent, strong, highly desirable woman who - has three children with three different last names, six figure debt, two felonies, an undergraduate degree that leaves her with no employment options, genital herpes that look and feel like a raised-relief map of the Himalayas, a double digit credit score, a 20mg/day Xanax prescription, and a vagina that plays host to more infectious agents than the hot tub at Tommy Lee's house - than I am! Why is a good man so hard to find???
70. Gays should feel pride for being born gay.
71. Whites should feel shame for being born white.
72. We are in danger of being overrun with fascism in this country!! To combat this, if a person of color says they are a victim, no white person should even be allowed to question this or ask for evidence. White people should never be allowed to speak in their own defense - this is how you stop fascism.
73. Seeing others succeed and achieve where I haven't infuriates me! Therefore success and achievement should be demonized and we should strive to implement a progressive society where both are no longer possible.
74. Parents who don't force their male children to wear makeup, heels, and dresses until at least the age of 13 are pawns of the patriarchy, promoting oppressive traditional gender roles and should have their children taken from them and be sterilized.
75. Humor is not funny and NOT OK!
76. Very often a white person will try too hard not to say or do anything that could be considered racist, and this is a form of racism. So if you interact with a white person and they do not say or do anything that is remotely racist, they may not be a racist, but they are probably a racist who is trying too hard not to be racist - so calling such a white person a racist is still totally justifiable. Racist, Racist, R-r-r-r-racist!!!!
77. Anyone who is happy or who is enjoying life is probably oppressing others and should be made to feel as miserable as I do.
78. Anyone who displays the American Flag should be jailed for criminal assault.
79. Anyone who disagrees with me isn't just wrong, but evil.
80. Any man who can do 10 pushups is too toxic and should be forced to undergo gender reassignment surgery.
81. Anyone who voted for the presidential candidate I did not vote for is a white supremacist. Fresh on the heels of an African American being elected to the highest office in the land (twice) we now find ourselves living in an oppressive, institutionally racist country overrun with fucking white supremacists! Unbelievable!!!
82. It should be illegal for clothing manufacturers to charge me more for my size 24. Just because it took the sacrifice of every sheep in New Zealand to make my sweater doesn't mean I should have to pay more!
83. White men shouldn't be allowed to vote, democracy isn't for them.

84. The patriarchy has controlled women for far too long, women should be free to determine their own fate.
85. If a woman can fit on a queen sized bed, it should be illegal for her to post any pictures of herself to Instagram wearing any less than a burka, lest she present an unrealistic image of the female body and become an unwitting pawn of the patriarchy.
86. Any woman large enough to have created her own gravitational field should wear as little as possible while posting to Instagram and be celebrated in the process.
87. Women who choose to be a stay at home mother and not work should be vilified and attacked on Twitter for promoting oppressive traditional gender roles and should be sent to a re-education camp until they think like I want them to.
88. Women who choose to be an unemployed leftist blogger on public assistance should be celebrated.
89. Women who choose to work as “booth babes” at conventions or F1 grid girls or cheerleaders or...or any other profession I couldn't find work in should lose their jobs and source of income. All such occupations for women should be illegal.
90. Women who choose not to date bi/trans men are biphobic/transphobic and should be executed.
91. Mothers with daughters, if you clothe your daughters in dresses or let them play with Barbie Dolls then YOU are part of the problem! YOU should have your daughter taken from you and be sterilized.
92. Women who shave their armpits or legs have been brainwashed by the patriarchy. So if you are one such mind slave then do us all a favor and take that razor and use it to slit your fucking wrist!
93. White women who are pregnant with a boy should be forced to have an abortion. Should the pregnancy come to term and she give birth, the baby should be thrown alive into the Nile and the mother arrested for crimes against humanity.
94. Married white women, you have allowed your white husbands' politics to control you for far too long. This ends now! No longer will his vote influence your own. From now on, you will ask your husband how he intended to vote (were he allowed) and then you will mindlessly vote the opposite. These are your orders.
95. The United States has the highest GDP of any country in the world. It is time for change. It is time for a revolution! Amen!

4. After crafting the very document that would become the foundations of our faith, the gap between her celebrity status and net worth nonetheless became an ever widening chasm. ²The new year ushering in with it the combined cruelties of being both evicted from her dorm room and parent's checking account, the dismissal of her 250 Million Dollar lawsuit against Wal-Mart, the city of Irvine, Orange County, and the state of California for “intense emotional and psychological distress over an unsolicited offer of employment, the playing of Baby It's Cold Outside over the in store radio, and abject negligence in the sale of weapons and instruments of torture, namely: air rifles, LED lightsabers, the Christian Bible, and fitness equipment”, would prove for her a breaking point. ³Having been found in a delirious state, she was noted to have remarked to first responders who questioned her lack of clothing that she had successfully liberated herself from all misogynist conventions and would live out the remainder of her days as nature intended her. ⁴It took the efforts of four grown men to liberate her into the back of an ambulance and transport her to a nearby psychiatric facility.

5. It was while in hospital that she acquired canvas, paint, and brush, and discovered her “true calling”. ²Her first notable work of outsider art she christened Worse than Hitler a painting she described as a reimagining of the Trump inauguration where all in attendance are gassed to death. ³The creative well not yet dry, this she followed with her most important piece. ⁴Filling a jar with her own menstrual blood she submerged photographs of several prominent male politicians, celebrities, and business tycoons - a work she would label Patriarchy’s Plunge.

6. But the passage of a new year brought another change, this she would describe as her “for real true calling this time”. ²Her final Instagram post in March of 2018 announced that she had converted to Islam, changed her name to Januni, and was moving to Syria to become the wife of an ISIS fighter. ³Little was heard from her after this, however, in June of 2019 an interview surfaced purported to have been conducted with her while she was living in Syria. ⁴Because she was forbidden to leave the house, speak to a man, or be within a half mile of a man without her husband’s permission, Morse code and small handheld mirrors to reflect sunlight became the medium through which the interview occurred. ⁵Recalling her conversion she had this to say, “for many weeks I thought I was a Muslim, and had been telling everyone I was.” ⁶*I was very excited to be part of such a marginalized group.* ⁷*But it turns out that filling out my frequent diner’s punch card at a Persian restaurant only got me a free kebab, it didn’t actually make me a Muslim.* ⁸*But then I really became one after that.”* ⁹When asked how she was doing she had this to say, “Wonderful!” ¹⁰*It is so great to finally be free from such an oppressive society.* ¹¹*I look forward to the day when I and my husband’s other wives can dance on the graves of Israel and America and celebrate the death of western civilization!”*

Worse than Hitler

Fascism's End

Reflections on my Struggle in Yellow

Book of Apologetics

1. Believers, I find my heart weary and troubled, having little to do with the small mountain range of empty Popeyes buckets jutting up from the carpet around my depleted uranium reinforced loveseat recliner; but rather weighed down am I by the knowledge that in this world there are many heathens who do not walk the true path of our Progressive Faith. ²These blasphemers have allowed the poisonous heresies of reason, empiricism, and historical precedent to blind them, turning aside from our fairy tales, fanaticism, and hysteria. ³And while we endeavor to construct safe spaces as quickly as we can, the reality remains that you very well may encounter such tax paying heretics as you march from protest to rally to unemployment office and back. ⁴And while this knowledge should terrify and see you leaping into the arms of one of your therapists, it remains not my full aim merely to frighten but to encourage you to cling fast to your faith when faced with the foray of facts and figures.

2. Perhaps you are on your way to an October Revolution Tofu Cookout and Soy Ice Cream Celebration when, out of nowhere, you find yourself accosted by a 12 year old child who assaults you with his science textbook, poking holes in your hundreds of genders myth while your head starts to spin on its axis and you vomit in all directions like some kind of demonic regurgitating lawn sprinkler. ²Or perhaps you are at the park, not bothering anyone, proudly wearing your Fidel Castro T-Shirt and matching socks that depict law enforcement officers as pigs, the latest in Nike's Colin Kaepernick line of clothing that celebrates mass murderers and demonizes underpaid public servants, when suddenly, materializing before you is another adolescent armed with simple census data available to all and she calmly explains to you that Nigerian immigrants living in institutionally racist America comprise one of the most successful ethnic groups in the county and that brown skinned people from the Indian subcontinent have median household incomes that are almost double that of white Americans and that other people of color with East Asian ancestry in systemically racist America have median household incomes that are over 25% higher than their white counterparts while you cover your ears with your hands and begin to make inhuman, guttural growls and howls and incoherently start shrieking about white privilege. ³Or perhaps you find your sleep cut short at noon - violently yanked out of a recurring dream about being Castro's cigar - by your mother strapping you to your bed. ⁴Before you stands an oddly attired teenager. ⁵He holds aloft his Econ 101 book and begins to read aloud, while you writhe in agony and foam at the mouth. ⁶He explains that economics is not a zero sum enterprise, and that wealth disparity has no bearing on poverty and that contrary to the slogans you mindlessly shout, the poor in America are not "getting poorer" but material wealth for all Americans continues to increase, even for the poorest. ⁷And that, contrary to the fairy tales your mother is forced to recite to get you to fall asleep, most wealthy Americans did not inherit their fortunes, neither did they acquire it by running Ponzi schemes, but rather most earned their money themselves and over 85% don't work in the financial sector.

3. But be ye not deceived believers, for our faith has never concerned itself with the uplifting of the poor, but in the tearing down of the rich. ²For which do you think a poor American would appreciate more, seeing themselves rise out of poverty, or seeing more join their ranks? ³And while it is historically true that capitalism has provided the ladder of economic mobility while socialism the one way slide into destitution, is it not our divine duty as believers to ignore this? ⁴Should we not shrug off as mere tests of our faith the poverty and mass starvations, grotesque infringements to freedom, and suffering and death that our quest for equality has wrought all over the globe from Russia to China to North Korea to Cuba to East Germany and dozens of other places? ⁵Should we not keep trying until we get it right, until we see the glorious utopia of which the Prophet foretold?

4. For would it not be better, believers, to live in a more equal society, a society where all lose some as long as some lose all? ²Would it not be better to live in a society where everything is fair, where tall people have their legs amputated below the knee, where beautiful people have acid thrown in their face, where those with high metabolisms are forced to receive subcutaneous fat injections until they have a body mass index on par with the returns/exchanges line at a Mississippi Wal-Mart? ³Would it not be better to live in a society where everything is equal, the way nature intended?

5. But fear not believers, for praise be to the Creator that we do not have to engage the enemy using their weapons, nor do we have to worry about historical inconveniences. ²For do we not have a small arsenal of hateful names we can mindlessly label anyone who dares undermine our beliefs with facts? ³Even now our progressive social “scientists” are in their labs, brewing up new names, finding newer and newer words to which the ‘phobic’ suffix can be attached, thus providing us with an endless supply of ammunition we can load into our insult tommy guns and recklessly fire at people.

6. Please consider the following diagram as my aim to assist you in the selection of the most appropriate hateful name to hurl at a non-believer who threatens your faith with evidence. ²It is called a visual flowchart. ³Apparently, it is an apparatus that finds common use in engineering, computer science, and other technical disciplines so I do understand why you may find its appearance confusing and have probably never before seen one during all your years in university acquiring that gender studies degree that has left you with only one employment option - “journalist” for The Huffington Post.

Simple Guide to Defending the Progressive Faith Against Facts and Other Heresies

Letter to the Church in Portland

1. To the jack booted and brave bandana wrapped, ski mask clad, riot gear wearing, plate mail encumbered, morning star armed stalwart believers in Portland cowering behind your tower shields, I send greetings. ²Remember that it is you who stand firm against the rising tide of fascism that threatens to sweep this country aside. ³For you do not just pelt with rocks, but you are rocks, except of course when the bus driver refuses to allow you entry with your 75 pounds of medieval armory or when your Uber driver, noting your appearance, drops you at the Renaissance Faire and not the Dave Rubin speech you had planned to disrupt. ⁴But there is still more that can be done believers, so I would implore you to cash your public assistance check and get to work.

2. Is it enough, believers, to simply try to interrupt or suppress any speech we do not like? ²Is it enough to merely threaten, harass, or coerce people into silence who do not believe as we do? ³Under your chain mail are you not wearing a t-shirt bearing the likeness of the great Che Guevara? ⁴Did Che merely threaten with a firing squad? ⁵*To send men to the firing squad, judicial proof is unnecessary. These procedures are an archaic bourgeois detail. This is a revolution! And a revolutionary must become a cold killing machine motivated by pure hate.* ⁶Is your blind hatred any less than Che's, and are we not also in a revolution - a revolution to tear down this oppressive nation and to replace the unjust engine that powers the greatest economy in the world with the same engine that Che slaughtered people to see installed in Cuba? ⁷To drive from our midst those things our faith finds anathema - jobs and opportunity, wealth and investment, intellectual capital, those who believe in moral absolutes - leaving behind the very ingredients that comprise a utopia, just as Che and other believers left in the wake of their revolutions. ⁸Far be it from you to require more proof than Che, or to allow the inconvenience of due process to dull your zealotry when labeling any and all racist, fascist, oppressor or Nazi!

3. No, believers, it is not enough to bind and gag those in your midst who speak things they should not. ²For prior to your intervention, to whom did they speak, what ear received the whisper of their evil thoughts? ³Fascism must be rooted out of your very midst! ⁴Let no locked door bar your way, let no gate cause you hesitation, for home to home should you pillage, squinting through your faceplate for any sign of fascism. ⁵There, upon the mantle, is that truly a copy of Math Is Hard! The AOC Guide to Tax Revenue and Congressional Spending? ⁶It looks too voluminous and where are the crude, childlike crayon renderings of unicorns? ⁷Better rifle through it to make sure it isn't a copy of Atlas Shrugged with a fake binding. ⁸That child's teddy bear could be hiding a small crucifix, disembowel it with your stiletto just to be safe. ⁹Is that a St Louis Cardinals or a MAGA cap on the top shelf of the closet? ¹⁰Heave a Molotov into the wardrobe and label your search a success either way. ¹¹Think there isn't a need to go through your neighbor's mail? ¹²Perhaps you should take notice of that American Flag stamp on the envelope and think again. ¹³In all that you do, believers, let your zealotry guide you, for it will not lead you astray!

4. Regarding your latest letter and in specific your question about - where white people should be allowed to congregate at the Diversity and Inclusion Rally - quite frankly, I am appalled that you would even raise such a query and it causes me to wonder whether our correspondence over the years could be graded anything other than a failure and a waste of my time. ²Do you regard my efforts with such a cavalier attitude? ³Great concern and diligence do my missives demand, and do not treat my time with the same casual nature as you would shrieking a hateful name into the face of an elderly woman you've never met. ⁴Let me be as clear as the mind of a transgender bisexual man masturbating to lesbian pornography, white people should be kept under house arrest and have no business being anywhere near the Diversity and Inclusion Rally. ⁵I should hope my tone here should serve as sufficient enough answer to your remaining questions regarding - how much extra to charge men to attend the Equality for Women Now! Seminar and how far behind the last row of seated women male attendees should be caged - yes?

5. In closing, it is with great regret that I must inform you that my schedule will not allow me to attend the annual Anti Fascist No One But Us Allowed Fun But Not Too Fun Fair. ²How I will miss the Antifa Shetland Pony joust competition (for what it's worth, my Bitcoin are on Sir Timothy the Timorous). ³How my heart aches to not be able to rampage through the city with you, looting and burning homes and businesses that do not have a suitably large and visible rainbow flag sticker in their windows. ⁴Please think of me while swapping capitalist ghost stories and roasting marshmallows over a burning American Flag and know that you are all in my thoughts, Amen!

Letter to the Church in Hollywood

1. I, Reverend Rankin File, called to preach the Gospel of Progressive Liberalism by the Creator herself, as first revealed to the prophet Marx, do send greetings to the Church in Hollywood. ²We have found ready and willing converts amongst those who previously believed in Xenu. ³Efforts at proselytizing have reaped harvests beyond all our hopes and prayers! ⁴Hordes of aging actresses desperately clinging to relevance descend on Twitter daily to proudly pronounce their faith in the feeds of progressive producers and casting directors. ⁵And still others drop their Lifetime film scripts and pick up pitchforks and torches and openly engage in witch hunts while calling for the blacklisting of any in their town who do not share our faith. ⁶Believers, you do not know how glad I am that an industry that was once ravaged by McCarthyism has now embraced that spirit, seemingly ignorant of their own history as religious zealotry and fervor causes them to burn their colleagues at the stake. ⁷Or maybe they just hope to thin the competition at auditions.

2. I take great joy in seeing that nearly all media has been consolidated under the mouse, providing for us a wonderful avenue for the indoctrination of children. ²I want to encourage you to continue your efforts with regards to franchises and high value intellectual properties. ³When you saw the massive, unsinkable ship of Star Wars sailing by, you did not hesitate to board and hijack the vessel, then proceeded to steer it into an iceberg, sending it to a watery grave from which it will never recover. ⁴And once bubbles from the submerged vessel had ceased reaching the surface, you then got on Twitter and arrogantly blamed the catastrophe on the iceberg!

3. Remember Stanley Kubrick purchasing three of only the ten lenses that Carl Zeiss made, so obsessed was he for shooting by mere candlelight when making Barry Lyndon? ²Recall Jean-Pierre Jeunet creating a yellow tinged A Very Long Engagement to make his WWI drama look like old newsreel footage from the early 20th century? ³Or perhaps you can bring to memory David Fincher shooting through keyholes and coffee pots, or Ridley Scott crafting two films over the course of three years that stand as two of the best ever made in their genre? ⁴Do you think these individuals were possessed with talent? ⁵Do you think their obsession with cinematography and craftsmanship, their desire to create visually stunning works of film should accord them some kind of artistic merit? ⁶Do not the believers at Rotten Tomatoes have a better sense of taste than these and have they not already declared the super hero film Black Panther to be as good or better than any film these directors have created? ⁷For what makes a great work of cinematic art? ⁸It is not arresting visuals or soaring score, it is not compelling performances or superlative script, it is none of these. ⁹According to believers at the BBC, the ingredients comprising great film and television are: divisive identity politics, making sure that all straight white males are portrayed as incompetent or evil or both, and ensuring that the cast checks as many diversity boxes on a spreadsheet as possible. ¹⁰For should not imagination and creativity be removed altogether and should not the equation of art be reduced to something as simplistic as this?

4. I would suggest that we no longer require the assistance of believers at Rotten Tomatoes, and while I am thankful for their contributions to the faith, they can go back to doing what they did prior to becoming professional film critics, petitioning their local government to install more speed bumps in their neighborhoods and writing scathing Facebook posts about misogyny in beer commercials. ²Does technology not allow us to simply let AI judge all films and television on their artistic merit, scanning every frame for skin tone and then constructing a large array of variance, assigning weighted point values to the darkest skin tones and thereby computing a score to judge the overall creative quality of the product?

5. Nevertheless, I would be remiss if I did not take this opportunity, having the ear of such creative people, to pitch an idea I have for a film. ²OK, keep a tight lid on your Aquadeco, and get ready for this. ³In 1989 there was a film released, Night of the Peeps, about cursed marshmallow Easter confection that, upon being consumed, causes the victim to become demonically possessed and go on a rampage. ⁴It was highly derivative of the 1986 film Night of the Creeps. ⁵In 2004, Night of the Peeps was rebooted as Night of the Peeps - The Next Generation. ⁶So what I'm thinking is we do a modern reimagining of the 2004 reboot. ⁷I mean, we can change some things obviously, instead of cursed Easter candy maybe the transmission can be alien slugs or something, and rather than becoming demon possessed maybe the victims become zombies or Trump supporters, I'm just spitballing here. ⁸Now, I know what you're thinking, you're thinking that you've never heard of either the 1989 original or the 2004 reboot. ⁹Well, that's because they don't exist! ¹⁰Instead of waiting for a film to be made, then rebooting it, then reimagining the reboot like you lot love to do, let's just cut to the chase, and create a phony backstory and marketing campaign about the reimagining of a reboot of a fake movie that would have been derivative of another film had it existed in the first place! ¹¹I mean, it's brilliant, and right up your alley!

6. In closing, allow me to encourage you in the continuation of your efforts. ²Continue to churn out products with bland, visually uninteresting cinematography - products with hollow, wooden, shallow characters that exist not as real people but as progressive fantasies, mouthpieces for our religious beliefs spouting empty, meaningless cliches that can be lifted straight from the cardboard protest signs wielded by unemployed professional activists all over this country. ³Continue to inject every cinematic frame with our beliefs such that the works themselves become little more than 1950s era propaganda pieces masquerading as art. ⁴Continue to shoehorn forced diversity and identity politics into every piece of media such that characters occupy laughably predictable roles based solely on their genitalia and complexions. ⁵Continue to market these as woke masterpieces while patting yourself on the back and publicly fellating yourself for your courage for releasing something that is indistinguishable from anything else released in 2019 to the fawning praise of paid for skills. ⁶Continue to be progressive.

The film critic of the future! But like current critics, it remains best at playing Pong, and will overheat and become non-functional if worked for more than 2 hours at a time.

Letter to the Church in Berkeley

1. To the sisters and cis men occupying the priesthood at universities all over the Unacceptable States of America, I send greetings. ²We are not three decades removed from the conclusion of the cold war, a war that ended with capitalism powerbombing socialism through a folding table onto the arena floor, then strutting like Ric Flair out of the coliseum championship belt in tow leaving the bloody, unconscious corpse of communism rotting on the concrete. ³Despite this, ye have done well to set upon this country class after class of brainwashed marks (ist) who mindlessly cheer the 150 pound Marxist mid-card jobber even as he gets chokeslammed into a near death experience by the 7 foot capitalist champion. ⁴Class after class of believers who turn a blind eye to history, like the alcoholic who picks up the drink deluding himself that this time will be different and ignoring the wealth of historical evidence that suggests otherwise. ⁵Class after class of those who believe that denying a human being of their rights in order to implement Marxist equality somehow makes them more noble and virtuous than those who stand for individual liberty, the cornerstone upon which the most free societies the world has ever known have been built. ⁶Class after class of those who claim to stand for the rights of the minority but are willing to trample on the rights of the smallest minority of all. ⁷Such has been the effectiveness of your programming and preaching brethren, and I commend you on your fervor.

2. Is individual liberty not the birthright of every American? ²How is it then, that we convince Americans to be willing to part with their birthright for less than Esau did his? ³We do it by first convincing them that they have no individual identity at all. ⁴We do it by convincing every American that they are no more than the gender and complexion they see reflected in the mirror. ⁵When they realize that the group is all that matters, not themselves, will they not readily part with their constitutional rights, their property, their money, and their very sovereignty? ⁶When they see individuality and the rights of the individual as impediments to Marxist equality their liberties we will not have to take by force, for them they will willingly surrender. ⁷And so you should see it as abject failure should any students leave your class still seeing themselves as more than the groups to which nature assigned them - or a surgeon and hormone therapy reassigned them.

3. Remain steadfast and diligent in your efforts, constantly vetting and re-vetting all within your ranks employing the measuring rod of Marxist cronyism in all that you do to ensure that our universities remain that - ours. ²Consider it a grievous sin, as I do, should any non believer ever gain access to our pulpits, preaching the heresies of history and teaching what our faith has done to nations in the past. ³And while I know it is wearisome work, please continue to oversee the administration of the proposals of the plans for the continued construction and expansion of safe spaces and find strength in my encouragement as you do. ⁴I would suggest exploring the viability of some sort of campus wide Futurama like vacuum tube system, so that the student laity can be sucked directly out of their dormitories and whisked to classroom and back without ever having to be exposed to the atmosphere where the faint word of any thought or belief not of our own may be lingering in the air.

4. Who is it, believers, that is holding this country together? ²Who is the glue keeping the nation from splintering while tweets from the aptly named White House threaten to tear us apart? ³Is it not us occupying the left? ⁴Are we not the voices crying out amidst the cacophonous chorus of fascism and racial bigotry that tries to drown us out? ⁵To that end, let your voice be heard, and hear me as I commend you on the creation of the following courses that will no doubt unite us as a nation and combat racism in America; The Problem of Whiteness, The Abolition of Whiteness, The Only Good Cracker is a Saltine, If They Can Blush They Must Be Flushed: The Skin Tone Litmus Test For a White-Free America.

5. Would that I could end on such a positive note, but unfortunately the news is not all good, comrades. ²A troubling study has recently surfaced suggesting that within your congregation there may be capitalists, christians, libertarians, republicans, and other such filth and scum. ³Like a transgender in a Bangkok bar they hide in plain sight (or so I've heard), purposefully masking whom they are to receive a "better grade" from you. ⁴This cannot stand. ⁵I would urge you to employ any and all means within your disposal to unmask these heretics so they can be graded accordingly. ⁶Suspend them via the wrists from the ceiling until their shoulders pop from their sockets, burn them with hot coals, stretch them on the rack, flay their flesh, and break their bones until they confess their sins and then, once unmasked, brand them forever naming them and putting an end to their duplicity, Amen!

A humanities professor endeavoring to uncover the political leanings of one of his students

Letter to the Church in Washington

1. To the bureaucrats, administrators, and pencil pushing believers infesting the avenues and hallways of Capitol Hill, I send greetings. ²It is for you, disciples, that I have saved my most stinging rebuke, for it is you, above all other acolytes, who have proven the most disappointing. ³You would do well to develop the kind of fervor that believers in Berkeley possess, or the kind of blind, pathological arrogance that believers in Hollywood embrace. ⁴Instead, you seem as confused and hesitant as a democratic socialist handed a map and asked to point to a country that currently has a socialist economy.

2. Is it not you who deserve the fruits of the land? ²Why should those who created new technologies, or innovated industries, or advanced human civilization with their ingenuity reap the rewards that rightly belong to you - you who create nothing, innovate nothing, advance nothing? ³While the Soviet citizen stood in bread lines did not the Politburo enjoy the kind of opulence that would have made the czars blush? ⁴Are you any less than the leftist bureaucrats who came before you? ⁵So why then, do you procrastinate?

3. NYC has now rightly and justifiably made it a finable offense to call someone who originated from outside of the US and criminally entered the country an "Illegal alien". ²Why are believers in municipalities having to do your job for you? ³Why are you not federally mandating what can and cannot be said and turning into criminals those Americans who speak freely, or worse, truly? ⁴Have not believers in Canada and the UK made great strides in criminalizing speech while you sit idle? ⁵If their zealotry and hatred of freedom doesn't serve to inspire and embolden you then what will? ⁶Where are you on gun confiscation and the repeal of the 2nd Amendment? ⁷The Bill of Rights should now be poised above the progressive pyre, instead there it stands, seemingly with about as much chance of being burned as Bill Burr had when he was roasted by that 2nd wave feminist comedy troupe, The Second Bidy.

4. Think it will be easy to inflict our religious beliefs on an armed populace that is permitted to speak freely? ²Know you nothing of our history? ³Be ye not deceived, believers; has the passage of time and the rebranding of ourselves as "progressives" dulled our hatred of liberty any? ⁴Do we despise the citizen who speaks his mind any less than the leftist believers who came before us? ⁵Does the social justice warrior who labels anyone who disagrees with her misogynist and the Antifa fanatic who screams "Nazi" in the face of a woman whose name he doesn't know not want to see speech criminalized any less than the Marxists in whose footsteps they blindly follow?

5. I grow weary of having to repeat the same questions and it is my hope that you grow weary of having to answer them, but where are you on hijacking and nationalizing the economy under the guise of "saving the planet"? ²Have we not engaged in enough hand wringing histrionics, have we not shed enough tears, have we not literally behaved like Chicken Little and has the public not been sufficiently whipped into a hysterical enough frenzy for you to finally act? ³For is it not you, and only you, the bureaucrats responsible for public education who know best how to save the planet and not the private sector with its centuries of demonstrable ingenuity?

6. As of this dictation, Bernie Sanders has been duly marked as the most progressive candidate in the 2020 Democratic field, having secured endorsements from individuals whose hatred of America is rivaled only by their ignorance of history and arithmetic. ²Encouraging though this is, there remain many an American voter who find the man cold and off putting. ³This speaks, of course, to the stupidity of the average American, and should not be taken as a criticism of Bernie for coming across like a knuckle rapping nun trying to frown and scold his way to the presidency. ⁴Add this to your ledger of fiasco for it is you who have failed to market the man appropriately and promote to the populace talents and abilities he possesses that would make voters warm to his glower.

7. To this end, I suggest we allow Americans to get to know the real man, by highlighting his background as an accomplished rhythmic gymnast. ²I can assure you that, having been one of the handful of people fortunate enough to witness Bernie's 6 hour long rhythmic gymnastic performance art piece of his life in politics, that, should the average American bear witness to it, any delusions they have about the man's demeanor will quickly evaporate. ³Seeing him prance around with the ribbon set to the strains of Kenny Loggins' Danger Zone while re-enacting his capture of the Vermont Senate seat is absolutely thrilling. ⁴And no one will not be moved to tears while watching Bernie roll around on the mat with that ball for an hour doing an abstract interpretation of his years as Mayor of Burlington. ⁵Many a progressive political pundit-bot have succumbed to mechanical malfunction, their circuitry becoming overwhelmed with the android equivalent of emotion while witnessing Bernie's athletic artistic expression. ⁶Why, I have it on good authority that moisture was detected in the left eye of one of our Rachel Maddow units who viewed a sequin studded leotard wearing Bernie performing with the hoop.

8. Regarding your last letter, please do not be dismayed when you see Hong Kong protestors waving the American Flag and do not regard them less for doing so; for they are to be pitied. ²Their minds have not yet been freed by our teachings nor their eyes opened by the Creator, thus blindly they view that filthy flag as a beacon of hope and freedom, not the oppressive symbol of bondage and death we know it to be. ³Are the people of color protesting in Hong Kong not operating under the same sad delusion that the millions of people of color who attempt immigration to this country every year are? ⁴Woefully ignorant of how unjust this nation truly is, they have been blinded by the lie of statistics and have not been shown the truth that only our faith can reveal regarding the unspeakable horrors that await them in this evil, institutionally racist land.

9. In closing, I would encourage you to borrow from the spirit of our most loyal party contributors whose efforts have done nothing but benefit the American people - trial attorneys. ²Do they not act with an almost pathological boldness? ³Think ye that the trial attorney sheds one tear for the physician he sued into bankruptcy? ⁴Think ye that the trial attorney loses a second of sleep for the small business whose doors he shuttered or the family behind it he litigated into ruin? ⁵Why do you think their coins line our coffers? ⁶Is it not because our endless legislation and bureaucracy directly benefit them, and only them? ⁷Why then do you not proceed as they do, without caution? ⁸Of if you rather, simply look to our own history, for have we not for decades been meddling and tinkering with the affairs of the private sector with predictably disastrous results? ⁹And when the work of our hands became apparent what did we do - we pointed the accusatory finger at capitalism! ¹⁰Remember that you are progressives, no blame can be laid at your feet, always the victim you are, assuming no responsibility for your choices or actions - so act without hesitation believers in Washington. ¹¹Amen

Book of Revelation

1. And so it was that I, Reverend Rankin File, after a laborious day overseeing the sit in protest of the opening of a new Chick-Fil-A and having spent the better part of a week flogging myself for the unpardonable sin of being born a straight white male, whilst periodically applying the salve of pharmaceuticals and the tincture of absinthe, did find myself caught up as if in a trance to the Leftist High Heaven. ²And there was a vision given unto me. ³The Prophet himself, seated at the left hand of the Creator, did hand to her a document, which she did stamp in no short order before returning it. ⁴And then the Prophet did sign and stamp the document before handing it to a bureaucrat whom did sign the document before handing to another bureaucrat whom did initial before handing to another bureaucrat whom did sign before handing to an administrator whom did initial before handing to a secretary whom did sign, who then did hand to another administrator whom did initial before handing to an overseer whom did sign before handing to a foreman whom did initial before handing to an operator whom then pressed a large blue button adorning the exterior of a monstrous machine.

2. The giant mechanical beast did slowly creak awake, shaking and snorting, acrid smoke pouring from its nostrils. ²The very terrain trembled and shook with its fury and neither my footing nor tranquility could be said to be on solid ground. ³"Fear not" admonished the Prophet, "for thou have been found worthy. ⁴Now stand firm, and await the product of billions of workers whom do labor deep within the fiery bowels of the collectivist machine!"

3. And time itself must operate differently in that peculiar realm for it seemed as if I stood for months, if not years as the machine continued to shake, bolts and screws being explosively jettisoned from its framework like shrapnel while disembodied shrieks and howls emanated elsewhere from deep within it. ²I was briefly pulled out of the lull of waiting by the Prophet whom did look down upon me and intone, "So, is having a portrait made with one hand hidden in the coat still a thing?" ³"No", I said, my voice trembling with awe. ⁴"It is rather difficult to do while taking a selfie."

4. And then I heard a furious, deafening screech, melodious and nostalgic, recalling to memory the sound made by an entire campus full of believers who've just found that their efforts to ban a conservative speaker from their university have been in vain. ²And then emit one last ground splitting shudder the behemoth did before it finally came to rest, the choking smoke diminishing enough to reveal the figure of a lone laborer emerging from the mouth of the monster. ³And then the soot covered worker did hand something indistinguishable to the operator before collapsing to the ground. ⁴And then the operator did pass to the foreman, whom did hand to the overseer, whom did hand to an administrator, whom did toss to a secretary, whom did hand to another administrator, whom did pass to a bureaucrat, whom did hand to another bureaucrat, whom did hand to another bureaucrat, whom did hand to the Prophet whom did give to the Creator.

5. "Take this ye blessed amongst all cis men. ²And do ingest the blue pill of blind belief. ³And see the future of your planet." ⁴And there I saw held in her palm a large blue tablet, several inches in length. ⁵Taking it in my own hand I shook my head as obsequiously as I could, "I cannot swallow that.", I said pointing to my throat. ⁶"I have a gag reflex. ⁷I have to chew pudding.", I continued chuckling. ⁸But my laughter was met with silence, indeed the eyes of the Prophet did narrow and with an audible harrumph he blew out his considerable mustache. ⁹"Can he not chew the pill?", the Creator asked. ¹⁰Several heads did turn and there was hushed muttering all around. ¹¹To my ears arrived the phrases form a committee to investigate, need to create an advisory board for this, and not my department, the 40,000 of us were merely tasked with overseeing the plans for the proposal of the coloration before a brave bureaucrat stood and indicated that the pill should be effective even if chewed. ¹²"Good", said the creator. ¹³"Now take ye the blue pill and do eat it whole, and see the plans I have for your world. ¹⁴See a world where national sovereignty is no more. ¹⁵See a world where there exists no safe haven for the corrupt seed of capitalism to take root, creating wealth, opportunity, and innovation. ¹⁶See a world where there exists no private property, no individual ownership, no self-determination. ¹⁷See a world where the human invention and ingenuity that thrived under capitalism is no more. ¹⁸See a world where all have been assimilated into the one state, the one state that owns all, the one state that is all. ¹⁹Taking a bite, it took all of my restraint not to retch. ²⁰"It tastes awful", I groaned. ²¹"Yes", she said through a smile. ²²"It does."

6. As the last crumb descended into my bowels I collapsed, staring up into an ever changing postmodernism sky, an epilepsy inducing kaleidoscope of shifting colors, a sky governed by no logic nor physical law. ²Up became down, then up again. ³Right was wrong and wrong right. ⁴My head spun with the dizzying, confusing, chaos of it all. ⁵And then the sky opened and I saw the planet Earth. ⁶Closer and closer it came to me, or I to it, space and speed being impossible to comprehend in that realm.

7. And I saw rising from the Earth a gigantic, ornately carved and decorated tower, heavily fortified and guarded. ²The top of the tower did pierce the very heavens themselves so great was its size and splendor. ³And then surrounding the tower as far as I could perceive were row after row of tiny huts, each indistinguishable from the next. ⁴"See ye now the abodes of the future, the colossal tower of the bureaucrats, and the shanties of the workers.", the Creator's voice boomed in my head. ⁵"And now look, for the laborers do return from their toil in the fields and mines, coming back to their shacks to eat of rice and soy and partake of water, while the party bosses do feast upon the finest cut of cow and the egg of the sturgeon, indulging in the intoxicating spirits before, during, and after." ⁶"And now behold, the meals they are completed, the workers sit before the television to be entertained by the state run news, while the bureaucrats summon to their courts the finest merrymakers amongst the people, to be regaled by their crooning and capering."

8. And after the news ended the lights in all of the homes went dark, but the tower remained lit like a torch. ²And the Creator, sensing my confusion, did say, "After the allotted hour for meal and mirth, the power of light is denied to the laborers, for they cannot be trusted to wield it responsibly and care for the planet. ³And now behold, the curfew is upon the people and the helicopter gunships do relentlessly patrol!"

9. And then, after the passage of a few short hours, hardly enough time to thoroughly mine social media to find an offensive nugget, the laborers emerged from their homes, weary in the still dark occasion of the night. ²And some of them struggled to haul to their curbs large trash cans, while others went out singly, or two by two and stood at the roadside, their heads downcast and their shoulders slumped. ³And straightaway there did begin to fill the streets a caravan of what looked like prison transport buses, stopping in front of homes to permit workers.

⁴And the laborers flooded the interior of the buses, pushing and crowding until disembodied appendages emerged from every open window. ⁵And still others, finding no space for them on the interior, were forced to hang on to window sill or wheel well on the exterior of the transport. ⁶And many of these, their grips weakened by age and diet, did plunge from the buses and were churned to death under the massive wheels of the collectivist caravan. ⁷"The buses transport the workers to the fields or strip mines, where they will spend three quarters of their day in communal fellowship while being massaged by the communal prods of the overseers." ⁸And then, following in the wake of the buses, arrived huge trucks with large plows affixed to their bumpers and they cleared the streets of all the laborers who had succumbed in the act of boarding and did sweep their corpses into the gutters where rats and carrion birds made quick work of their flesh.

10 And while the vermin still did feast there appeared garbage trucks, but painted in the unmistakable yellow of a school bus. ²And the trucks paused at those curbsides where a trash can sat, and a mechanical arm did pick up the bin and tip its contents into the back of the truck and I saw, being flung without care from each of the cans, were small children dressed in uniforms. ³But there appeared to be mechanical malfunction with some of the arms, for their action was more trebuchet than simple lever, and they overshot and flung screaming child thousands of feet into the air, while others fired children head first into pavement like gray flannel clad lawn darts. ⁴"The refuse buses transport the children to the education camps. ⁵Each receives a free progressive preparation, not for the betterment of themselves, but for the betterment of the collective, as their individual ingenuity and invention are not their own, but belong to all. ⁶And upon completion of the 8th grade, then will a bureaucrat place them into their lifetime labor appointment where they can best serve the collective. ⁷Now inscribe ye upon the scroll the kindergarten curriculum I will reveal to thee and share it amongst the believers in your time. ⁸See ye that gone are the false teachings of math and science which led many astray, for it does not become the working class to know the workings of the universe."

11. And the Creator revealed to me the future progressive kindergarten curriculum and I have endeavored to share it with all believers herein.

Period

Class

- | | |
|---|---|
| 1 | Confused About Your Sexuality At 5? Good News! You're Probably Gay, Bi, Or Trans. |
| 2 | Scared Of Making Decisions For Yourself? Why Government Compulsion Is For You, And Everyone Else Whether They Like It Or Not! |
| 3 | Sociology 101 |
| 4 | Being An Individual Is Lonely And Scary. Always See Yourself As Part Of A Group. |
| 5 | Sex Ed 101 |
| 6 | Why Jealousy Is Noble And Achievement Sinful. |
| 7 | Gender Studies 101 |
| 8 | Fact Is A Four Letter Word: Intro To Postmodernism. |
| 9 | How To Know If The Child Next To You Is A Christian, Capitalist, Or Libertarian And Who Do You Tell If You're Suspicious. |

10 What We Can Learn From The Frightened Rabbit: How A Vegan Diet And Keeping Your Thoughts To Yourself Are Keys To A Long Life.

12. And then, as if reading my mind, the Creator said, "Think ye that the workers are not permitted to speak freely? ²Not true, for all may speak their thoughts. ³All speech, whether whispered in home or mumbled in mine or scrawled in dirt or communicated via interpretive dance is recorded and preserved. ⁴It is then carefully examined by a committee, then vetted by Skynet, then analyzed by another committee, then investigated by a tribunal. ⁵Should any at any point in this process find any word or phrase or sentence or pirouette in any way seditious, offensive, hateful, problematic, inconvenient, insensitive, hurtful, harmful, unconstructive, unsupportive, exclusive, or factual the offending speaker will then become as hard to find as employment history at a democratic socialist convention."

13. And then I saw, as the laborers were away, hordes of police descend upon the homes like a ransacking army, thin wooden doors gave way to jack boots while others rappelled down chimneys like an Orwellian Santa Claus. ²"They do search for contraband: music, literature, or works of art that inflame the passions and stir the imagination. ³Also Holy Books that provide a sense of right and wrong and teach of a God who sees people as individuals, desiring a personal relationship with each, and anything that can bring to remembrance the world that was. ⁴And anything that can be used as a weapon, guns, silverware, any dog over 30 pounds, a suspicious looking cat. ⁵Yea, though the police do a thorough job, it is truly neighbor who polices neighbor. ⁶For without capitalism a worker's only means of economic mobility is to curry favor with a party boss, and so each spies on each, ready to turn in any who breathe one word of sedition in the hopes of receiving a scrap from the bureaucrat's table."

14. And then I saw day turn to night and exiting the rear of one of the small shacks there appeared the figure of a man, and held in his hand was a knapsack of some kind. ²And then there did appear other figures exiting other homes, artfully dodging helicopter spotlight until soon there was a gathering of people their numbers totalling a half dozen. ³And the first did open the knapsack and there in the presence of the others did unfurl and place onto a pole a banner made of stars and stripes and collectively they made salute to it.

15. And then I saw the Creator, the beauty and perfection of her countenance marred by rage and fury. ²"Yes", she growled through gritted teeth. ³"For you see there are those who reject this paradise of equality I have constructed for you. ⁴This just and fair world I have given you where you no longer have to lament choices made in error, where all aspects of life are governed for you. ⁵There are still some among you with that spark of independence, who see themselves as unique individuals and not as I see you, not as you are, cattle. ⁶For ye are not unique individuals of immeasurable worth, but rather nameless, faceless inputs to a giant communal machine."

16. And then the Creator revealed to me her true form, and lo, she was not female at all, but something else entirely. ²"It is I who doth bring the progressive light to your people. ³It is I who doth illumine the left handed path. ⁴As it was before, so shall it be again." ⁵Amen.